Villages, woodland, meadows, views, craft village and gallery, chapel

In Brief

This walk takes you on an adventurous excursion from Puttenham, a delightful village with a church, cottages and a good pub. (To book at the Jolly Farmer, ring 01483-810374.) The other big attraction is the Watts Gallery and Artists' Village in Compton where you can also visit the Studio via a woodland walk and enjoy good food in the licensed café/restaurant.

This walk was originally one half of the longer Guildford-Puttenham walk, which is now an extra "zipped up" walk combining the two shorter options.

There are some patches of nettles and brambles on this walk but the going is fairly dry, even in the winter months. So long trousers and any reasonable footwear should be fine. Your dog could come too, provided you have a short lead for the crossing of the A3 junction. There is one section across the golf course at Puttenham but it is short and easy.

The walk begins in the village of Puttenham Surrey, postcode GU3 1AJ. For more details, see at the end of this text (→ Getting There).

The Walk

The Haslemere-Guildford Monster joins this walk here.

1 The walk begins near the village of Puttenham on the main road in the car park opposite the Jolly Farmer. Leave the car park and turn left. You are now on the North Downs Way (NDW). Avoid the tarmac lane that forks right towards the golf club. This is also part of the Pilgrims Way, that historic route used by pilgrims from Winchester to the shrine of Thomas Becket at Canterbury. Your track goes between the clubhouse and the practice links. Just after Rare Breeds farm avoid a private right fork; at a junction avoid a track left and a footpath right, always staying on the main track. After the last golf tee, your track goes past cottages: here ignore a bridleway on the right, a footpath on the left and a track that forks right. Eventually you reach the last house on your left, called Questors. Soon your track enters woodland. As before, stay on the NDW straight through the woods, avoiding three bridleways leading off.

2 You are now in a woodland of mainly red oaks with, on your right, a nature reserve belonging to Loseley Park (see the adjoining Guildford-Compton walk). Your track joins a tarmac drive, takes you under the A3 road and under an arch below a slip road. The crosses mark the Pilgrims Way running underneath. Straight ahead will lead to Down Lane and the Watts Gallery, but first there is an interesting diversion. In 50m or so, turn left on a track leading through a gate to an overflow car park used for Gallery visitors. Immediately turn right up a new zigzag path into the trees and rhododendrons. Note the decorated tree and the kaleidoscopes. In a short distance, you come to a Celtic Cross and a carved seat. The cross was built at Watts' request, depicting pilgrims, rich and poor. The seat was donated to Mrs Mary Watts in 1934 by the Potters Arts Guild. The path on your left is a series of hairpins leading up to the Watts Studio, in the Watts's original home, Limnerslease, displaying many unfinished canvases and letters, including several of Mrs Watts. (Limnerslease is currently only open to guided tours: ring 01483-813593.) Now retrace your steps and turn left back to the road. (There is a short cut through the rhododendrons.) Your route now continues right along the road, unless you are going on to Guildford (at the link point below). But first turn left to arrive in 50m at the Watts Gallery with its photo studio, resident artist(s), shop, loo and café/restaurant.

WC

George Frederic Watts was a Victorian painter, famous now for his allegorical works (such as "Hope" and "Fata Morgana") but also hugely successful in his time for his radiant portraits of the rich and famous and their families. He moved to Compton later in his life and built the gallery to house his paintings and sculpture. The Gallery was refurbished thanks to the Lottery Fund and the BBC "Restoration" programme. It is open 11am - 5pm (from 1pm on Sunday and Bank Holidays), closed Monday (except Bank Holidays). The site also houses a photo studio, an "artist in residence", a shop and a restaurant.

Decision point. If you are doing the longer “zipped up” 17 km=10½ mile Guildford-Puttenham walk, switch to the Guildford-Compton walk and join it at section 6. Otherwise ...

- 3 After your visit, double back along Down Lane the way you came, passing a round knoll and Coneycroft Farm on your left. Soon you reach a spreading cedar and a gate on the left leading to the Watts Chapel and Cemetery. The chapel is unique and different from anything you may have seen before and absolutely worth the small climb.

The Watts Chapel and Cemetery were designed by G.F. Watts' wife Mary. The interior of the Chapel was moulded and painted in gesso (felt dipped in a mixture of plaster and glue) in Mary's Studio by a team of craftsmen. The cemetery contains the graves of the Watts and several local artists who assisted with the building. The writer Aldous Huxley, of "Brave New World" fame, is also buried here (see the "Puttenham and the Welcome Woods" walk in this series).

Continue along the road, finally reaching the main road, and turn left into the village of Compton.

Compton goes back to Saxon times, the name indicating a farmstead ("tun") in a hollow between hills ("cwm"). As you walk through, you have a strong feeling of soul and community stretching back the four hundred or so years of many of these venerable houses. Compton and its church were one of the places that the pilgrims visited on their way to Canterbury. Perhaps the only thing that mars the peace is the busy road running through the village.

In just over 200m, as the road bends left, turn right on Eastbury Lane, sign-posted as a bridleway.

- 4 See map overleaf. Soon on your left is an arch, giving you an unmissable chance for a quick excursion to visit the Church of St Nicholas. This is not just another village church: it is unique.

St Nicholas church is 500 years older than any of the other buildings in Compton. Inside the church you see Norman pillars and arches carved from chalk found on the nearby Hogs Back. The square tower dates from Norman times and the clock from 1688. In 1929 a tiny cell was discovered in the north wall which would have been home to an "Anchorite" or hermit who would have lived there voluntarily, from the date of incarceration until death, being fed via a small gap and eventually buried (often underneath the cell itself). In the same year the Sundial was also found, having been hidden for many centuries. It shows time in relation to church services. The two-storey chancel is extremely rare and the second altar was probably made by passing pilgrims, as was the cubic painting on the walls. There are "graffiti" too: a Norman knight in the chancel arch. The stained glass trefoil window in the lower chapel also dates from the 1200s.

Continue along the lane beside the wall of Eastbury Manor and stay on the lane as it veers right in front of the gates to Westbury Manor. Follow the grassy track as it curves left to a fingerpost. Take the right fork, uphill towards some pines. The path leads you up to the top of the slope where there is a field on your right. Veer right here over a stile close to the right-hand side of the field. Your path takes you between metal gates and barbed wire fences. The open path then narrows as it crosses a rough meadow. At the end, go past an unnecessary stile and down steps (care! slippery) to a road. Turn right on the road, crossing to the pavement on the other side, to reach a roundabout. Care! The roads at these junctions are busy and can be dangerous. Keep left, crossing over the slip road for Portsmouth, across the main A3 road, go over another slip road and turn left on Puttenham Heath Road. Cross carefully to the other side and, just after a contractor's work shed, fork right through a wooden barrier on a signposted footpath.

- 5 The footpath runs between garden fences, beside a paling fence and out onto the links of Puttenham Golf Club. Care: do not stray! Keep straight ahead between a fence to your left and a line of trees to your right, watching out for golf balls. Head for a marker post with a yellow arrow visible ahead in a gap. [Dec 2021: marker post grounded and invisible – your route is basically ahead, always in the same general direction.] When you reach it, cross straight over the next green to another yellow-arrowed marker post [Dec 2021: also grounded and invisible – keep straight ahead] beside some trees. Continue in exactly the same direction by skirting the copse of trees, either to the right (at a marker post) or left, until you come to a large open space with a cricket pitch. Keep ahead just to the left of the cricket pitch, aiming to the left of some picnic benches and go up a small hill ahead, heading for a flagpole at the top. This is Frowsbury Hill, a Bronze Age burial site. Here Queen Victoria and Albert reviewed the mounted troops in 1858.

- 6 Skirt around the left of Frowsbury Hill and head for the clubhouse which soon comes into view (unbooted walkers are welcomed for drinks and nibbles). Pass to the left of it, joining a driveway. Note on your left a water jet boot cleaner, free for use by golfers, walkers tolerated. Continue to meet the road again opposite the Jolly Farmer. and thence to the car park where the walk began.

Getting there

By car: Puttenham lies 4 miles west of Guildford between the A3 trunk road and the A31 Farnham road. It is clearly signposted from both roads. Park in the car park opposite the Jolly Farmer inn.

An alternative start is in the overflow car park at the Watts Gallery.

By bus/train: bus 65 from Guildford stops in Puttenham village. Check the timetables.
